

All the Colors in Our World by Lorraine – ©Lorraine Baron – December 2017

[Opening]

*I opened my eyes, and now I see
This beautiful planet, and its diversity
And without light, my eyes cannot see
The gift of colors from Mother Earth to me...*

[Verse 1]

Gazing out onto the ocean I see the horizon
Golden orange and crimson bright against the midnight blues
The glowing sunset's wonderful because of all the colors it reveals
Its beauty formed from all the differing vivid hues

[Chorus]

All the colors in our world speak to me
Lavender and amber, peach, gold and ruby
They are a gift from our blue planet, her awe-inspiring tapestry
Only with sunlight can we see, our earth's encompassing diversity
Our hearts will open up our eyes, and then we'll finally see

[Verse 2]

We use these words to describe Mother Nature's colors
We drink in shades of cherry wine and plum and tangerine
Her fields of wheat or saffron meadows softly ripple in the quiet breeze
Her mountains bounded by sky blue and forest green

[Chorus]

All the colors in our world speak to me
Lavender and amber, peach, gold and ruby
They are a gift from our blue planet, her awe-inspiring tapestry
Only with sunlight can we see, our earth's encompassing diversity
Our hearts will open up our eyes, and then we'll finally see

[Verse 3]

All the people on this earth we share her riches
Coral reefs and sea green creatures deep beneath volcanic slate-grey stone

Our skins are bronzed or tanned or rosy-colored underneath the same sunshine
Here we exist together we call this place home

[Chorus]

All the colors in our world speak to me
Lavender and amber, peach, gold and ruby
They are a gift from our blue planet, her awe-inspiring tapestry
Only with sunlight can we see, our earth's encompassing diversity
Our hearts will open up our eyes, and then we'll finally see

[Closing]

*I opened my eyes, and now I see
This beautiful planet, and its diversity
And without light, my eyes cannot eyes
The gift of colors from Mother Earth to me...*

The gift of colors from Mother Earth to me...